Feast of Tabernacles

2019 HIGH SCHOOL GRADUATES
2019 is officially half over! And what a six months it has been! We ended 2018 with a number of difficult decisions. The new building was scheduled to be completed by the end of last year, but no later than the end of January. Our lease was to end Jan. 31, and we would have no place to go if the building were not finished by then. Our emergency plan, if we needed more time, was having everyone work from home. But in December our landlord, Greg Nelson, who lives in Houston, was in Dallas for the annual end-of-the-year breakfast his company hosts for all the tenants. I explained our situation, and he assured me we had nothing to worry about. He would extend our lease on a month-by-month basis for as long as we needed.

We finally moved into the new building on March 1 of this year, just in time for the spring holy days and our biennial International Ministerial Conference. The first six months of this year have been quite eventful.

But now summer is here, and that means youth camps. This year we will once again host 11 camps with more than 1,000 people involved—preteens, teens and staff members. These types of camps have been part of the Church’s history since the early 1960s, almost six full decades ago.

From our perspective, youth camps are among our most successful activities year in and year out. Each year at the conclusion of the camp season, we ask, “Why was our camp program so successful?” With thousands of youth going through the program, it is clear that there is no single answer. But let me give you the reasons I think our camp program is so successful.

First of all, we have a dedicated team of adults who have been organizing camps year after year for decades. Some of the people on this team have been working with youth camps for more than 40 years. Their experience is a big reason we expect success each year.

Second, we have parents who are willing to get involved in the lives of their children. They aren’t turning their children over to others. Many of them work at the camps and the others are supportive, encouraging their children to give it a try.

Third, we have staff members who sacrifice time and money to serve at camp, some serving at more than one camp each year. It isn’t an overstatement to say that without this army of volunteers, the Church would be severely limited in the number and quality of camps that we could conduct on an annual basis.

With a dedicated camp team, caring parents and a few hundred staff members willing to volunteer, I believe we are assured of another successful season. All but one of our camps will take place over the next two months. The one exception is our teen winter camp, which is scheduled for the end of December.

I did leave out one item that must be included when considering the success of our youth camps. God’s involvement. I pray regularly for our youth, and I know that many of you do as well. Everything we do should include God and be done to His glory. Peter wrote about this in 1 Peter 4:11—“that in all things God may be glorified through Jesus Christ, to whom belong the glory and the dominion forever and ever. Amen.” If we approach our youth camps from this perspective—seeking God’s involvement and doing it to His glory—we will be successful.

In summary, why are our youth camps so successful?

• We have a dedicated and experienced camp team.
• We have caring parents.
• We have staff members who are willing to give their time to serve our youth.
• We seek God’s involvement.

Within the next two months (July and August) 10 camps will take place. We consider these camps an investment in the future of our young people and critical to the future of the Church. I hope you will consider getting involved if you have the opportunity to do so. I am confident you won’t regret it!

Budgeting for the Feast of Tabernacles
We have an amazing opportunity to attend God’s Feast each year. Just as amazing is that we are commanded to enjoy ourselves! How can we fulfill that command from God?

2019 High School Graduates

Church Potluck

Announcements
After the Gore family in west-central Alabama acquired electricity and a radio, the life of young Bruce Gore became set on a course of undreamed-of experiences. It began when the family listened to Herbert W. Armstrong, a powerful radio preacher whose messages would have a direct bearing on the years that followed, especially for Bruce.

Bruce was good at math in high school, and he began considering a career in civil engineering. He became aware of Ambassador College through Mr. Armstrong’s broadcasts, so he decided to apply there. However, Ambassador offered no engineering degrees. So, for the next several years Bruce worked at various jobs, attended what was then the Radio Church of God and was baptized before long. Eventually, he decided to reapply to Ambassador, with no expectation of an engineering degree. This time he was accepted.

Marriage and ordination
Bruce Gore married fellow student Phyllis Davey in the fall of 1966 after serving several weeks in Indianapolis and Fort Wayne, Indiana—his first assignment as a ministerial trainee. Mr. Armstrong ordained him the following year in Jekyll Island, Georgia, during the Feast of Tabernacles.

Three years later the Gores were transferred to Macon, Georgia, and after serving there for a year, he was made pastor. In the years that followed, the Gores faithfully served wherever they were assigned.

Ensuing years brought broadened experiences. Mr. Gore worked with teen camps in Alabama and Georgia; served several years as regional pastor of the Southeast Region; and served as Feast coordinator for Pigeon Forge, Tennessee (2014 and 2016). The Gores traveled several times to international Feast sites, including three times to Africa.

Three big lessons
With experiences came valuable lessons. Mr. Gore reflected, “Certainly, I learned early on that you must believe and live what you preach. I learned the value of friendships with both the brethren and one’s peers and the powerful part our wives play in our ministry. But, certainly for me, I learned the importance of stepping out on faith. Sometimes, the tasks we are asked to perform may seem quite daunting or even intimidating. Ironically, I began serving in the ministry with a real fear of public speaking; but with God’s help, I forced myself to do what was asked or expected and God was always there to supply the help. Truly our God is an awesome God!”
Unexpected reward

“Some of the most enjoyable opportunities,” Mr. Gore continued, “have opened up to share the truth with so many incredible people of all ages and backgrounds. I never would have guessed how rewarding it would be to be given God’s help to learn and teach His marvelous truths to those God calls. That and the deep friendships we have been allowed to develop among the members and our peers are priceless, to say the least.”

Inspiring miracles

The Gores witnessed God’s influence in the lives of those He calls. Mr. Gore commented that “it has been inspiring to my wife and me to see many miracles of healing and protection for God’s people over the years. But some of the most inspiring miracles have been the changes that take place when God enters the lives of individuals—even those who are hostile.”

He shared the example of a woman who had to slip out of her house with her three children and drive over a hundred miles to attend services and then face her husband’s angry outbursts upon her return home. Then the couple’s youngest son almost died from an accident. She had requested prayer and anointing for him, but the father would not allow it. She used an anointed cloth, the local church prayed for God’s intervention as well, and the little boy recovered.

“A few months later, the husband showed up at church with her and sat during services—face impassive and with his arms folded across his chest. Surprisingly, he was back the next Sabbath, and the next. I began to notice him glancing over at his wife’s Bible, and weeks later he brought his own Bible. I almost cried one Sabbath when he walked up and said, ‘Mr. Gore, I would like to talk to you about baptism.’ I had the great pleasure of baptizing him a few weeks later.”

Family life

“God gave us four wonderful children. The transfers were the hardest on them. We could at times hear them crying at night prior to a move for having to leave friends they had made. But before long in the new church areas, they had made new friendships. The experience of moving and having to meet and develop relationships with new people was a great learning experience for all of us. And our children came to see that in time as well. We later asked them if they felt all those experiences had handicapped them in any way or not. They all stated that they felt they had gained much more than they had lost.”

In August 2018 Bruce and Phyllis Gore were honored on their retirement from the full-time ministry. Jim Franks commented that the Gores have been loved and respected in all their church assignments, and that they made major contributions to the well-being of the Church.

Retirement has not altered the dedication that the Gores have for God and His Church—which all began with a boy, electricity, a radio and God.

On the Road Again

The following are the areas served by Bruce and Phyllis Gore from 1966 to 2018:

1970-1976 Macon, Valdosta and Columbus, Georgia 1996-2005 Birmingham and Gadsden, Alabama; and Columbus and Rome, Georgia
1977-1979 Raleigh and Fayetteville, North Carolina
1979-1988 Kansas City South and North and Topeka, Kansas
1988-1994 New Orleans and Raceland, Louisiana

On the Road Again

The following are the areas served by Bruce and Phyllis Gore from 1966 to 2018:
God established a way of providing enough financial resources for most members. It is self-funded and set aside for Festival use.

Take a moment before continuing and read Deuteronomy 14:22-27. To summarize:

- Verse 22 instructs us to set aside a tenth of our increase each year in an account specifically designated for God’s festivals.
- Verse 23 tells us to take this tithe and go to where God places His name—one of His chosen Festival sites.
- Verses 24-25 relate how to use that tithe. Today we generally take our tithe as money and spend it according to our budget.
- Verse 26 is a favorite: “You shall rejoice, you and your household.”
- Verse 27 reminds us that this tithe isn’t to be used selfishly and lavishly. Rather, we must ensure that everyone gets to enjoy the Feast! That includes those whose Festival tithe might not cover all their expenses.

Budgeting our Festival tithe will ensure that there is enough to finish the Feast strong. Doing without a budget and relying on a credit card to cover everything can lead to a large debt after the Feast—and a lot of unneeded stress.

Using a budgeting tool

Here is a simple, yet effective budgeting tool. Use this as a way to predict how much money you will have and then apportion it wisely.

Income: This is a total of the funds you will have available for the Feast. Include all of your second tithe, any extra money that you may save during the year to supplement your tithe, etc. Add all of these figures up in your budget worksheet.

Expenses: This is a projection of all the expenses associated with the Feast—travel to the Festival, the Festival itself and the trip home.

- Tithe of the tithe. This is a practice established long ago of giving a tenth of our second tithe to the Church to help pay for the many expenses it incurs in providing so much of what we enjoy at the Feast.

- Transportation to and from the Festival. This includes airfare or bus fare if you’ll be traveling commercially. If you’re driving, you should include proper preparation for your vehicle, such as a tune-up or general inspection of its safety readiness. Estimate the cost for fuel by figuring the distance to and from the site, how many miles your vehicle gets per gallon of gas, and the price of fuel along the route. Fuel prices at resort areas are often higher.
• Festival housing. Knowing in advance how much money you will have makes it easier to plan where you can afford to stay. Remember to include fees and taxes.

• Meals. Plan a certain amount of money to spend on meals for each day. Estimate an approximate amount for breakfast, lunch and dinner for everyone you are supporting. Add these expenses together and multiply that by the number of days in your trip. Food costs can be significant, so plan accordingly.

• Transportation during the Festival. If you are traveling commercially, you may need to rent a vehicle or use public transportation. If you’ll be driving, be sure to plan for fuel costs during your stay. If you’re riding with others, include some money in your budget to help the driver.

• Entertainment. See what is left before planning your entertainment. Many areas offer a lot of extra activities, so you will need to consider what you can afford. If you are able, include money to take a needy member or family to dinner, or to pay for them to have a special activity.

Once you have your projected expenses, add them up and compare them to the funds you have available. Do you have more than you need? You may be able to increase a budget item. Do you have less than you need? Look for ways you can spend less or increase your Festival fund.

Once you have a budget, be sure to stick to it during the Feast. Keep track of what you spend to ensure you stay within your budget. Doing so can make your Feast less stressful and more enjoyable.

Reread Deuteronomy 14:22-27. Take these instructions as God’s advice in planning your Festival. Then go to the Feast with gladness and joy as you reap the blessings of following His ways! ☦️

Planning an International Feast? Consider Travel Insurance

Our experience illustrates the value of having travel insurance when going to an international Feast site.

It’s that time of year again when Feast planning is already beginning!

There are many things to consider as we plan: budgeting, making travel and accommodation arrangements are just a few. And if you are contemplating attending an international site, planning rises to a whole new level!

When thinking about international travel, how many of us add “travel insurance” to our planning list? When my husband and I left in September 2017 for a European adventure that was to culminate with keeping the Feast in Calais, France, we had no idea how grateful we would be to have purchased travel insurance.

While enjoying pre-Feast travel through England and Europe, my husband became ill. By the time we arrived in Calais, he was confined to bed with a high fever. Over the next few days, his condition did not improve, so we sought medical advice. An ambulance trip to the emergency room led to five nights in the Calais hospital. He was not discharged from the hospital until the Last Great Day.

Are you seeing dollar signs here? Yes, they did exist. But, thankfully, due to our travel insurance coverage, we were not required to pay any of these expenses. What a blessing!

I share our Feast experience with you as an encouragement for you to consider including travel insurance in your international Feast plans. Taking care of medical expenses is just one of its many potential benefits.

On a wintery February Sabbath, the Houston South church enjoyed its annual chili cook-off. After a very informative sermon by Jim Franks about the history of the true Church, the judges went to work. A half dozen contestants presented their best chili, and the judges had a difficult time determining the winners. The final results were first place, Nelda Pierce; second place, Tony Davis; and third place, Lizzie West.

We all then enjoyed the fruits of their culinary skills and great fellowship with all the members. Chili was topped with chopped onions, grated cheese, chips, jalapeños, salsa and more. As well, hot dogs were smothered with chili. We topped off our meal with great salads (green and fruit), tea, lemonade, and then homemade desserts and ice cream sundaes.

Now our congregation looks forward to our next annual cook-off, anticipating new participants and flavors.

Susan Scott Smith
MEDITERRANEAN, WHITE ELEPHANTS AND BUNCO

On the evening of March 9, the Atlanta, Georgia, congregation held a Mediterranean-themed potluck and enjoyed a spirited game of bunco hosted by our pastor, Mark Winner. The potluck was held after services on the Sabbath. Once the sun set, the various wrapped gifts were set up on a table for all to see, and Mr. Winner started the evening by explaining the rules. This was an evening filled with laughter, and we were regularly changing partners as we tallied our team and individual scores.

Deciding which wrapped prize to take home was a highlight for both young and old—until the instruction was given to exchange gifts with someone else! The end of the evening was just as exciting as the beginning, as we unwrapped our gifts to see what we were finally taking home.

There were two special prizes from the University of Georgia (Georgia bulldogs) for the player with the highest score, Tommy Johnson, and the player with the most wins, Chant’a Collier.

FAMILIES GLORIFYING GOD WEEKEND

“Fulfilling Our Godly Roles” was our theme for the annual Families Glorifying God Weekend, March 15-17 in the Twin Cities, Minnesota.

The weekend began with a Friday evening Bible study presented by our pastor, Gary Black. He set the tone for the weekend with his message titled “How Do We Glorify God?” Portions of the Bible study were interactive, giving us the opportunity to provide input on how God is glorified.

Sabbath services began at 1:30 p.m., with our 10-member instrumental ensemble accompanying the song service. Two pieces of special music were presented—a vocal solo with flute and piano accompaniment and a vocal octet with piano accompaniment.

The Sabbath service was made even more special as we witnessed Dustin Ellison being ordained as an elder!

Our guest speaker, Michael Hanisko, gave the sermon, titled “What Does It Mean to Be Made in the Image of God?”

Following services, the men and women went to separate areas. The men held a symposium, while the women held a roundtable. These events included presentations from several of the men and women, in addition to discussion time.

During the men’s and women’s events, coordinated activities were held for children aged 11 and under.

We enjoyed plenty of time for fellowship while enjoying our Mexican fiesta dinner! And then, after sunset, we were pleased to present the Families Glorifying God Variety Show! The show included 13 acts, with participants ranging in age from 7 to 70-something! Our hosts, Kevin and Mary Peyton, guided us through the evening with plenty of humor and one-liners to keep the audience engaged!

Sunday morning we met in St. Paul at Can Can Wonderland, an artistic mini golf course with vintage arcade games available. Lunch was included and ended the weekend. About 70 participants enjoyed the Sunday activities.

Beloit Holds Unleavened Bread Reception

The Beloit, Wisconsin, congregation began the Days of Unleavened Bread this year with a finger food and dessert reception. The meeting hall was beautifully decorated and included a display of flags from the 12 tribes of Israel. There were a large variety of delicious unleavened desserts and fruit. It was a delightful start to the spring holy days, filled with great fellowship and inspiring messages!

Ocala Hosts Picnic

On March 31 the Ocala, Florida, congregation hosted a picnic at Silver Springs Park. Designated as a National Natural Landmark in 1971, Silver Springs State Park and the surrounding areas offer a wealth of cultural and historical significance.

We had 27 people from various church areas in attendance. People came from as far away as St. Petersburg and Tallahassee, Florida. The brethren gathered in a casual setting, on a beautiful day, among God’s inspired surroundings. All families enjoyed the great food, wonderful fellowship and games. It was a great day for all.

Kinsley is Robert and Kristen’s second child, Gary and Gale Black’s second grandchild, and Robert and Trisha Mazza’s eighth grandchild.

_Graham Henderson_

Chad Smith, now a member of the Columbia, Missouri, congregation, was baptized Oct. 24, 2018. Chad was raised in the Church of God. He is married to Felicia, and they are blessed with three children, Catrina, Dominick and Naomi. Chad is a third-generation Christian. His father, Elgin Smith, was a second-generation Christian. His father was fighting cancer at the time of Chad’s baptism and died just over six weeks later, but he did get to witness his son’s baptism. Chad knew how important it was for his father to see him baptized. So he borrowed a stock tank, placed it outside in front of his house in the dark of twilight and filled it with cold water. Elgin was carried to his car and driven right next to the stock tank. And so, on this chilly and windy October evening, windows down in his vehicle, dogs barking in the background, Elgin Smith, accompanied by his wife, Donna, and their other two boys, witnessed his son’s baptism into the family of God.

Anne Elizabeth Koenig

The COGWA Buffalo, New York, congregation was pleased to add another baptized member to the body. Anne Elizabeth Koenig was baptized March 3. Daughter of Stephan and Rachel Koenig, Anne was born into God’s Church Sept. 18, 1999. Over the years she has been involved in many activities and projects with and for the Church. Anne is a very passionate Christian and serves the Buffalo congregation by coordinating the church food drive, helping coordinate the young Christians’ club, and singing in the local choir.

She currently attends Mercyhurst University in Erie, Pennsylvania.

Floyd Elgin Smith II died at his home on Sunday, Dec. 9, 2018. He was a lifelong member of the Church of God, attending with his family in the Columbia, Missouri, area. Elgin was born in 1957, the son of Minnie and Floyd Elgin Smith, also a member of God’s Church. In 1977 he married Donna Jokisch, with whom he had three sons, Gregory, Kevin and Chad. Elgin was a self-employed businessman and owner of Elgin Smith Salvage and a logging business. He enjoyed hunting and was musically inclined, playing drums and guitar. He loved spending time with his family, especially his three grandchildren.

Elgin was a shining light to his community. His funeral was attended by hundreds. The funeral director commented that Elgin’s funeral was one of the three largest in the history of the funeral home’s decades of operation. After his death, stories were told about how he would quietly pay for poor townspeople who couldn’t afford to pay their fuel bills in the cold of winter. Only God knows the extent of his inconspicuous service.

God’s people prayed for the healing of Elgin’s cancer, from which he suffered for years. God intervened to keep Elgin alive on several occasions. Only weeks before his death, Elgin was blessed to witness the baptism of his son Chad. He is survived by his parents, wife, children, grandchildren, brothers and sister.
